

Legal Aspects of Real Estate

Rockwell's Legal Aspects of California online course will help licensees gain an understanding of the legal implications of real estate transactions. The course covers, among other topics:

- the legal system and how legal disputes are resolved,
- types of estates in land and how they are owned,
- real estate agency law,
- real estate contracts, and
- how property is transferred.

This course content is delivered online—you can access it from any Internet-enabled PC. You can take the course at your own pace in the convenience of your home or office, as long as there is Internet access. The final exam, which is based on the online course/textbook material, is also taken completely online—you will know immediately whether or not you got a passing grade.

As part of the online course, you receive a 630-page California Real Estate Law textbook at no extra charge. This textbook makes an excellent reference guide when you have finished the online course.

Registration and Refund Information

Termination by Student - A student may terminate his/her enrollment and may be entitled to a refund, in whole or in part, as explained below. Termination must be done in writing and delivered to the Rockwell Institute in person or by certified mail.

Termination by School - The Rockwell Institute reserves the right to terminate a student's enrollment for nonpayment or for conduct that is considered inappropriate.

Effective Date of Agreement - The effective date of a student's registration agreement is the registration date, which is the date the tuition is paid. Payment is considered made when a check or cash, for part or all of the tuition, is received by the Rockwell Institute, or when the student pays with a credit card, in person, by phone, or online.

Refund Policy - A student is entitled to a full tuition refund if ALL of the following conditions have been met:

1. within 14 days of the student's registration date, Rockwell has received a written note canceling the student's registration and requesting a refund;
2. the student has not logged on to the online course; and
3. the textbook (if any) has been returned to Rockwell in an unused condition.

The refund will not be paid until the written refund request and the returned textbook (if any) have been received by Rockwell. Course materials other than a textbook do not need to be returned.

Return shipping will be at the student's expense. The refund will be paid within 30 days of receipt of the written refund request and returned textbook (if any).

No refund request will be considered:

- after the student has logged onto the online course, or
- any later than 14 days after the student's registration date.

Here is an example of how the refund policy would apply: Student X registers for a class on April 4. She receives her course materials in the mail on April 8. On April 9, she changes her mind about taking the course and mails back the course materials and a written request for a refund. Rockwell receives the written request and materials on April 12. This is within the 14-day time period, and Student X is entitled to her refund.

Satisfactory Completion - A student has satisfactorily completed a course when he/she has completed the necessary number of hours and, when required, passed an examination approved by the Department of Real Estate. A student must complete any course within six months of the effective date of the registration agreement as defined above. Three month extensions may be granted for $45 upon request by the student.
